ABOUT THE DIRECTORY

The purpose of this directory is to provide information about resources in Wisconsin that may be helpful to you and your family. The Autism Society of Greater Wisconsin believes that every person and family affected by autism is unique. You have the right to learn about all options and then select what you feel is the most appropriate for you. Some of the resources listed in this directory may be right for you and your family, while others may not match your family’s unique needs.

If you find any errors or have any additional resources you think should be included, please let us know by calling the ASGW office at 1-888-428-8476. Inclusion of names on this list does not indicate endorsement of any practitioner by ASGW or local Wisconsin affiliates. Families have different levels of satisfaction with every professional or service named.

The design of this resource directory is based on the Finding Your Way: A Navigation Guide for Wisconsin Families who have Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs and Disabilities developed by the Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs program, within the Wisconsin Department of Health Services. To access a complete copy of this guide please follow the link below. http://www.waisman.wisc.edu/cedd/pdfs/products/community/FYW_e.pdf

To inquire about adding a resource to this directory, email kbrodhagen@autismgreaterwi.org or call (920) 558-4602.

Screening for Developmental Delays

Birth to 3

The Birth to 3 Program is for children ages birth to 36 months. Eligibility is based on a diagnosed disability or significant delay in one or more areas of development. The team will evaluate the child's ability to: learn (cognitive development); move, see and hear (physical/motor development); communicate and understand other's communication (speech and language development); respond to and relate with others (social and emotional development); and eat, dress and care for daily living needs (adaptive development). No matter where you live in Wisconsin, the county is responsible for providing Birth to 3

Program services to eligible children and their families. Contact the Birth to 3 Program in the county where you live if you are concerned about your child's development.

Early Childhood Special Education Programs

Each school district in Wisconsin is responsible for providing a continuum of Special Education and Related Services to Children with Disabilities and who need special education. Children are evaluated to determine if they met the one of the state's eligibility criteria. Special education and related services may provide consultation to staff, direct services to the child, training related to the disability, and other services that are identified in the child's Individualized Education Program.

EDUCATION

Children under Three

Birth to Three

The Birth to 3 Program is for children ages birth to 36 months. Eligibility is based on a diagnosed disability or significant delay in one or more areas of development. The team will evaluate the child's ability to learn (cognitive development), move, see and hear (physical/motor development), communicate and understand other's communication (speech and language development), respond to and relate with others (social and emotional development), and eat, dress and care for daily living needs (adaptive development).

Children Three and Older

Early Childhood Special Education Programs

Schools provide Early Childhood Special Education to children age three to five with disabilities in a wide variety of settings, including preschools, Head Start Programs or in a child's home.

<http://dpi.wi.gov/sped/early-childhood>

Special Education

Each school district in Wisconsin is responsible for providing a continuum of Special Education and Related Services to Children with Disabilities and who need special education. Children are evaluated to determine if they met the one of the state's eligibility criteria. Special education and related services may provide consultation to staff, direct services to the child, training related to the disability, and other services that are identified in the child's Individualized Education Program.

Transition to Adulthood

Opening Doors, a Guide to Adult Services

It is important that you begin to think and plan for life after high school as early as possible. While you are still in high school, you may be able to make decisions about your adult life, including where you want to live, where you will work after you leave high school, and whether you want to obtain further education or training.

<https://dpi.wi.gov/sites/default/files/imce/sped/pdf/tran-adult-services-guide.pdf>

Opening Doors, a Guide to Postsecondary Education

A guide developed by the Department of Public Instruction, is helpful for those considering postsecondary education.

Home Schooling

If you have decided to home school your child, you must file a form with the Dept. of Public Instruction called PI-I206. This form states that you will provide at least 875 hours per year of instruction using a sequentially progressive curriculum of fundamental instruction in six areas: reading, language arts, mathematics, social studies, science, and health. There is no monitoring done by DPI, and home-schooled students are not required to take standardized achievement tests. You don't need to have your curriculum or calendar approved, and you don't need to have a teaching certificate, but you must take attendance.

ADULT SERVICES

Aging and Disability Resource Centers (ADRC)

Aging and Disability Resource Centers (ADRCs) are the first place to go to get accurate, unbiased information on all aspects of life related to aging or living with a disability. ADRCs are friendly, welcoming places where anyone - individuals, concerned families or friends, or professionals working with issues related to aging or disabilities - can go for information tailored to their situation. The ADRC provides information on broad range of programs and services, helps people understand the various long term care options available to them, helps people apply for programs and benefits, and serves as the access point for publicly-funded long term care. These services can be provided at the ADRC, via telephone, or through a home visit, whichever is more convenient to the individual seeking help.

<https://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/adrc/index.htm>

Family Care

Family Care is a long-term care program that helps frail elders and adults with disabilities get the services they need to remain in their homes. This comprehensive and flexible program offers services to foster independence and quality of life for members while recognizing the need for interdependence and support.

Wisconsin Independent Living Centers

Independent living centers (ILCs) provide assistance to people with all kinds of disabilities. These agencies were created to promote independence and self-determination for individuals, as well as to offer support and information to families and communities. Services provided by ILCs include: peer support, information and referral, independent living skills training, coordination of personal care and other services, advocacy and community education. <http://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/disabilities/physical/ilcs.htm>

Employment

Division of Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR), Dept. of Workforce Development

You are eligible for DVR services if you have a disability that makes it hard for you to find or keep a job and you need DVR services to deal with your disability limitations. After you apply, DVR has 60 days to decide if you are eligible. <http://dwd.wisconsin.gov/dvr>
