

Halloween 2020: A Same and Different Story

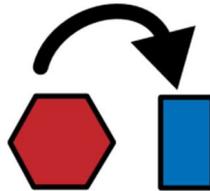

Halloween is happening soon! Halloween is on October 31, 2020.

This year, some things have changed, and some things have stayed the same.

Some changes feel okay, and other changes feel sad or scary.

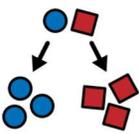

I usually feel better when I know that a change is coming.

When I think about Halloween this year, I can think ahead about some changes.

I can look at this list and think about things that will be the same or different.

 Same	 Different
I can still wear a costume. 	I will try to stay 6 ft. from strangers.
I can still listen to Halloween music. 	Halloween Parades might be canceled.
I can still carve pumpkins. 	Trick-or-Treating might be canceled.
I can still collect candy. 	Indoor parties might be canceled.
I can still sort my candy into “chocolate” or “fruity” or other groups. 	Haunted Houses might be canceled.
I can still decorate my home. 	My school won't have a Halloween dance.
I can still watch Halloween movies. 	My classroom won't have a party with shared treats.
